

30th IEEE International Conference on Electrical Performance of Electronic Packaging and Systems

October 17th -20th, 2021, A Virtual Event

EPEPS is the premier international conference on advanced and emerging issues in electrical modeling, analysis, synthesis and design of electronic interconnections, packages, and systems. It also focuses on new methodologies and CAD/Design/Measurement techniques for evaluating and ensuring signal, power, and thermal integrity in high-speed designs. EPEPS is jointly sponsored by the IEEE Electronics Packaging Society, the IEEE Microwave Theory and Techniques Society, and the IEEE Antennas and Propagation Society.

EPEPS will be an excellent forum to highlight the latest advances in the high-speed and high-performance semiconductor industry. It is expected that over 200 participants from industry and universities will engage in the 4-half day conference, to be held virtually between Oct. 17th and 20th, 2021. The forum offers a great opportunity for sponsorships and for related companies to build their brands in this leading international platform. Sponsors will be given high visibility during the conference, on the EPEPS web site and social media in addition to several opportunities to interact with conference attendees including virtual booths and tutorial sessions.
